

Making Your Network Bulletproof Takes on a Completely New Meaning

Bulletproofing your business networks from the threats of doing business today has taken on a whole new meaning as one of Alberta's Premier Microsoft Small Business Specialists achieve new certification with Microsoft Canada.

Calgary AB - 28 April 2009 – The Internet is rapidly becoming the platform on which many businesses in Alberta rely on to remain competitive in the global economy. Many software applications are only available online and more are revising development schedules to meet the growing demand for “Cloud” ready technology solutions.

As the momentum towards online services, electronic communications, social networking and many other cloud-based services continue to gather speed and security solutions continue to keep pace with the new online business model.

Alberta Small Business Specialists and Microsoft Gold Certified Partner, Bulletproof InfoTech has recently completed their fourth competency in Microsoft Security Solutions. As a Microsoft Security Solutions Partner with a specialization in Active Directory Security, Bulletproof continues to serve the needs of business throughout Alberta from their locations in Red Deer and Calgary. Bulletproof has served the needs of business for over 20 years in Alberta.

“Business owners are concerned about viruses and how one small virus can halt their business,” said René Sloos, VP Solutions, Bulletproof InfoTech “the security concerns that many smaller businesses often thought would not impact them, are now concerns that keep them up at night”.

Security threats have evolved and have become increasingly complex. Businesses continue to face day-to-day threats from virus activity, potential security breaches, and other malware. Bulletproof specializes in securing small business as part of the netSHIELD Managed IT Services program. Layering IT security with leading partners to secure Microsoft Small Business Server, Windows Vista and Office 2007 allows business to collaborate, correspond and remain productive without the ongoing threats of the world today.

Bulletproof is also a member of Microsoft's Security Software Advisor program. With our membership, bulletproof works closely with Microsoft security solutions and throughout the partner program to ensure all clients continue to operate in a secure manner. Our partnerships include leading Microsoft ISV Partners offering two-factor authentication, perimeter threat protection, computer/server security and email security solutions protecting over 750 computers users throughout Alberta.
